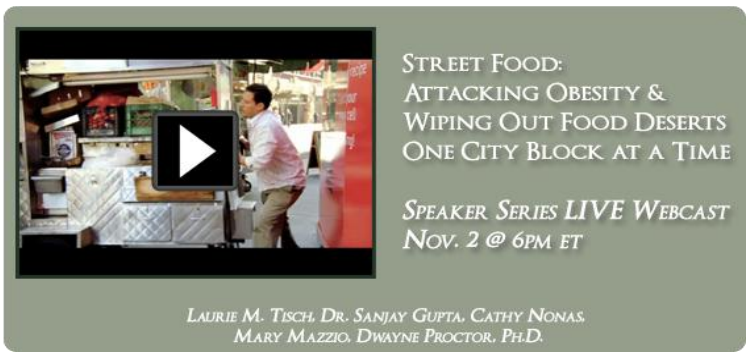
The Arthur M. Blank Family Foundation

Issue No. 7 October, 2011

Speaker Series: November 2, 2011



As part of the Foundation's ongoing work to reduce childhood obesity in Georgia, The Arthur M. Blank Family Foundation Speaker Series will host "Street Food: Attacking Obesity and Wiping Out Food Deserts One City Block At a Time." The November 2, 2011(6 p.m. ET) program will also be available via live webcast. Join the conversation at #FoodDeserts or @BlankFoundation. Read more.

Georgia's Food Deserts

According to the latest state-wide study by The Food Trust, "Food for Every Child: The Need for More Supermarkets in Georgia," nearly two million children and adults live in lower-income communities inadequately served by supermarkets. A grant from The Atlanta Falcons Youth Foundation is helping grocers open stores in neighborhoods in which residents don't have access to fresh produce. Read more.

America's Meal Gap

Feeding America undertook the Map the Meal Gap project to learn more about the face of hunger at the local community level. See if your Community has a meal gap.

FalCan Food Drive

The Atlanta Falcons are partnering again this year with Publix and the Atlanta Community Food Bank to host their annual FalCan Food Drive. Prior to the Atlanta Falcons vs.Tennessee Titans game on Sunday, November 20, fans are encouraged to donate canned food items or make a monetary donation to benefit the Food Bank. In addition, this year the Atlanta Falcons and Publix are also offering an exciting new opportunity for local schools to get involved to help fight hunger! Read more.
